

a weekend with jungian analyst

Lyn Cowan

presented by THE JUNG SOCIETY OF UTAH
and the IJ & Jeanné Wagner Jewish Community Center

FRIDAY EVENING LECTURE

Seabiscuit

The Little Horse That Could, And Did, And Still Does

with Jungian Analyst Lyn Cowan, Ph.D.

The word “hero” is so broadly used in our day that it begins to lose its mythic sense. But the mythic Hero stands in an important relationship to the Self. Implied in the Hero’s grand mission are ideas of personal responsibility and vocation. This presentation, illustrated with film clips from the feature film, Seabiscuit, will consider the collective psychological phenomenon that was a horse named Seabiscuit, a true mythic Hero, and the human partners who engaged with him in a mutual process of transformation. Their story is as much for our time as it was for theirs.

All mental health professionals are eligible to receive 1.5 complimentary CEs

Friday, March 2nd, 2012

7-9pm (doors open at 6 for Art & Mingle)

IJ & Jeanné Wagner Jewish Community Center

2 North Medical Drive, Salt Lake City, 84113

Donations appreciated

SATURDAY WORKSHOP

Many Are Called

But How To Answer?

with Jungian Analyst Lyn Cowan, Ph.D.

The word “vocation” means a “calling,” experienced as an inner voice that prompts us to follow a certain path in life. But “vocation” is more than an occupational aptitude or career path; it involves a sense of Destiny, of purposefulness – not merely blind Fate –that deepens our sense of self as we grow older. Jung’s theory of individuation suggests that we are each “called” to become distinct personalities, to become conscious of ourselves and our differences, both interpersonal and intrapersonal. But how can we answer this call in a world pressing more insistently for conformity for safety’s sake? What sort of heroism and personal responsibility is required for us to both hear and answer psyche’s call?

All mental health professionals are eligible to receive 6 CEs

Saturday, March 3rd, 2012

9:30am - 5:00pm

IJ & Jeanné Wagner Jewish Community Center

2 North Medical Drive, Salt Lake City, 84113

About Lyn Cowan

Lyn Cowan, Ph.D., has been a practicing Jungian analyst since 1980, Director of Training for the Inter-Regional Society of Jungian Analysts for six years and past President of the Society, held a Professorship for ten years at the Minnesota School for Professional Psychology of Argosy University, and taught for two years at the C.G. Jung Center of Houston, Texas. She lectures frequently in the US and internationally and is the author of three books. Her passion for horseracing began when she was eleven and continues unabated.

$99 - cost to public

Special discount for members* (price includes lunch)

Workshop tickets can be purchased online at www.jungutah.com

*To learn more about becoming a member and The Jung Society of Utah, visit us online at www.jungutah.com